

ABOUT DR. TY SEIDULE

Ty Seidule is Professor Emeritus of History at West Point where he taught for two decades. He served in the U.S. Army for thirty-six years, retiring as a brigadier general in 2020. He is a visiting professor at Hamilton College as well as a New America Fellow.

In 2021, Secretary of Defense Lloyd Austin appointed Seidule to the National Commission on Base Renaming where he served as the Vice Chair.

Ty Seidule has published numerous books, articles, and videos on military history including the award-winning West Point History of the Civil War. In his new book, Robert E. Lee and Me, he challenges the myths and lies of the Confederate legacy and, explores why some of this country's oldest wounds have never healed. Ty Seidule graduated from Washington and Lee University and holds a PhD from the Ohio State University.